

158b Biomimetic Approaches to Biomaterials Design

Efrosini Kokkoli

A common theme in bioengineering is to modify the biomaterial surface to interact selectively with cell types through biomolecular recognition events. This tutorial will discuss a promising approach where biomimetic peptides are used as building blocks for biomaterials functionalization.